Regents discuss assessment

Improving the quality of education Oklahoma students receive is the primary purpose of a first-ever systemwide assessment policy considered recently by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education. Regents announced the proposed policy for purposes of discussion and public input.

Under the proposed policy, Oklahoma's 25 public colleges and universities will take the lead and assess students and survey alumni in order to identify areas in which the institutions could make improvements. While academics would be the primary area of focus, other areas such as counseling, financial aid and student services would also be examined.

"The central focus of the proposed assessment policy is clearly to increase student success," said Chancellor Hans Brisch.

"Examining the achievements of students at various stages of their academic careers and receiving feedback from students about their education will allow institutions to make [Please See Page 8]

Ousley new Miss SWOSU

Gail Ousley, an 18-year-old sophomore, is the new Miss Southwestern.

Jennifer Chapman, the original 1991 Miss Southwestern, got married during her reign. This entitles Gail, first runner up, to take over the honored duty.

The youngest of four children, Gail was raised in Marlow. Gail owes a large amount of her success to her mother. "If there is one person I admire most it is my mother," she said.

Majoring in elementary education, she hopes to pursue a career in coaching 7th or 8th grade basketball.

College big adjustment for freshman

By Chip Chandler

Entering college is quite an experience for any freshman, but especially for a small-town resident like me.

My hometown of Canadian, Texas, prepared me little for the situations that have already assaulted me. This, however, is not all bad.

Already I have made more friends than I did when I entered high school four years ago. In addition, my classes have given me a slight sense of security that lessens my fears for the next few years.

One high school activity that did prepare me for situations that I have already encountered was band. Band gave me the social skills I need to survive not only in college, but also in the world at large. I decided to continue my band experience by enrolling in marching band for the fall semester. I remain firmly convinced that this was the best decision I could have possibly made when deciding on my schedule. I have met more people and made more friends in just a few days than I would have in a whole semester of regular classes.

Joining the marching band Newspapers on sale

The Student Center Book Store now carries "Dallas Morning News", "The New York Times", "USA Today", "The Wall Street Journal", "The Daily Oklahoman", and Barron's.

has also kept me quite busy, which was always a problem in Canadian. Kappa Kappa Psi and Tau Beta Sigma, the band service fraternity and sorority, the people of the college and the town of Weatherford itself.

The first dance, though rained out, was infinitely better than any Canadian had ever offered.

Commentary

respectively, co-sponsored many pre-band activities including a picnic, dance, softball game and a pizza party.

By attending these I formed quick friendships and did not feel the unrelenting boredom that often set in at my hometown.

In its favor, Canadian did offer a great many college-preparatory classes. However, these classes at times did little more than warn of impersonal teachers who would not even take time to learn their students' names. This most definitely is not a problem with which I have had to deal at Southwestern. All of my teachers have been extremely personable, helpful, and interesting. Classes thus far have been very informative, giving me an initial background to start off the semester right. My greatest fear was to go to a college and find myself just another number, but after only my first few classes, I have had my fears allayed.

Besides band activities and meeting people through classes, the student senate's many Howdy Week activities have given me further opportunities to become acquainted with both

I have even found better two-steppers here than in the cultural overload of cowboys and cowgirls of my hometown. The treasure hunt has given me a great opportunity to get to know Weatherford better, even though I have yet to win anything. Las Vegas night and the final official Howdy Week dance were highly entertaining events.

All in all, Southwestern and Weatherford offers much to the beginning student. From band activities to classes to Howdy Week fun, I have been constantly busy and enjoying my time here. I really feel that Dr. Janzen's advice to the freshmen at orientation was the best piece of advice that I ever received while preparing for college: "Get involved." I certainly have and not once have I regretted it.

Letter to the editor

To the Editor,

Due to KBXR's recent change from an adult contemporary format to a strictly country format, the need for a college radio station increases. Although country music enjoys popularity in Weatherford, several college students (and others) dislike country music enough that they might not even turn to a "country" station for the latest news and weather information (myself included).

Sure, most people can pick up Oklahoma City stations, but what can those tell us about what's happening in Weatherford. Non-country fans need the freedom of choice to turn on the radio and hear what they need to hear as well as what they want to hear.

A college radio station would not only provide a medium to appeal to the varied musical tastes of the college students (rock, pop, jazz, classical, alternative, etc.), it would also serve an educational purpose. With the rapid growth of the oral communications department (speech-theatre), broadcasting seems like the next logical step.

Southwestern grows and changes constantly. From the computerized meal tickets to the snazzy new snack bar, we are rapidly catching up with some of the larger universities. A college radio station would give us that "something extra" to offer Southwestern students—entertainment and a chance to experience the exciting field of broadcasting first hand.

The Southwestern is the student newspaper of Southwestern Oklahoma State University. It is published every Wednesday during the fall and spring semesters, except during holidays and finals week, and biweekly during the summer semester by the Southwestern Publishing Co., University Campus, Weatherford, Okla., 73096. Students in the editing classes serve as section editors.

The Southwestern encourages comment from the student body, faculty, and administration in the form of letters to the editor. All letters must include a name and phone number for consideration; however, the name may be withheld upon request. The phone number will not be printed, but it will allow us to contact the writer should the need arise. Letters should be sent to The Southwestern, 100 Campus Drive, Southwestern Oklahoma State University, Weatherford, Okla., 73096.

The opinions expressed within editorials are the opinions of the writers, and not necessarily the opinions of the university administration. The Southwestern Publishing Co. is solely responsible for the content of this newspaper.

Campus police dedicated to safety

By Jeannette Careson

The director of the "new and improved" Campus Police Department, located on the corner of State and College Streets, expressed concerns and improvement ideas in a recent interview.

Chief Don D. Groth, a retired Oklahoma Highway Patrolman after 21 years of service, stressed "overall safety for everybody. If you see something or somebody suspicious or unsafe please address the department. We hope you enjoy your years here at SWOSU with minimal problems."

He added that the department's combined experience of more than 55 years makes it an experienced and reliable force.

Lt. Vanessa T. Maggard, with 12 years combined experience at SWOSU as dispatcher and currently as patrolperson, expressed original views. "I feel the safety of the student is important and my main pet peeve is an unclear crosswalk. Keep crosswalks clear so that pedestrians can see traveling vehicles."

Seventh-year dispatcher Linda Uplinger showed strong feelings of "Safety First," but also commented on a close relationship between Campus Police Department and the students. "I want the students to know we're here for them and not against them."

Patrolmen Tim P. Bailey, with 12 years experience with the Weatherford and Elk City police departments, and William M. Meyer, with three and a half years with the Attica, Kan., Police Department, are new on the SWOSU force as of Aug. 1.

They are here to ensure the safety of all students and faculty and will enforce all rules and regulations including the

Drug, alcohol policy announced

Southwestern Oklahoma State University recognizes that drug and alcohol abuse diminishes the integrity of the institution and erodes the strength and vitality of its human resources.

It is the intent of the university to educate students and employees about the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse, and to discourage the illegal possession and distribution of drugs and alcohol. Accordingly, SWOSU adopts the following policy:

The unlawful possession, use or distribution of illicit drugs and alcohol by students and employees on SWOSU property, or as a part of any University sponsored activity, is strictly prohibited. All students and employees must abide by this policy as a condition of enrollment or employment. Continuance of employment or enrollment following receipt of this policy constitutes acceptance of this policy by the employee or student. Sanctions will be imposed for violation of this policy.

SWOSU provides access to the University Employees' Assistance Program and Student Counseling Services for counseling and training programs which inform participants of the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse. Voluntary participation in or referrals to these services is strictly confidential.

The University will seek to incorporate the teaching of the hazards of drug and alcohol abuse throughout the curriculum where appropriate. The University will also request authorities in the area of drug and alcohol abuse to present programs at least twice each year for the University community.

The Student Personnel Services Office will provide literature on referral services and educational material on drug and alcohol abuse and treatment.

The following hotline numbers may also be used by those needing help or advice: National Institute on Drug Abuse, 1-800-662-HELP; National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth, 1-800-554-KIDS; National Council on Alcoholism, 1-800-622-2255; Reach-Out Hotline, 1-800-552-9054.

For more information, contact Dr. Fred Janzen, vice president of Student Services.

Commuter lounge remains best-kept campus secret

Are you a commuter student? Do you have breaks between classes and are tired of sitting in the Student Union, the library, or worse yet, in your car?

Then come on down to the Student Union Commuter Student Lounge on the south side of the Union down the hall from Gaylon's Style Shop.

"We felt that the commuter student needed a place to go between classes," says Duncan Taylor, head of the Student Union. "It's a good place to go and relax, take naps, or study."

The lounge, which is very spacious and homey, with comfortable furnishings, is open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Mondays, and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and is open to all commuter students.

"We've got tables to study at, several chairs, lockers, a typewriter, couches, a stereo and a kitchenette with a refrigerator, microwave and a sink for students who bring their lunch. It's also the quietest place in the union," says Taylor.

"Last year, the turnout downstairs was pretty good. I'd go down and there would be from five to six students at a time. It's also a good place for study groups."

In addition to a conducive atmosphere for studying, the lounge also provides a nice quiet place to unwind between classes.

So if you've become tired of the noise in the union, the stuffy confines of your car, or would just like a quiet place to take a cat nap between your 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. classes then head to the south side of the union, go downstairs and enjoy.

Monopoly Night

Rents, riches, real estate

A chance to be Donald Trump for a night! Buying, selling and trading real estate like the pros will be the activity of the night as Southwestern's Student Association hosts the First Annual Monopoly Tournament on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

The First Annual Monopoly Tournament is open to all Monopoly fans and will offer the opportunity to all who play, the chance to be the first Southwestern Oklahoma Monopoly Champion.

The tournament will consist of two 90-minute rounds. The top five asset earners at the end of these two rounds will advance to the final 90-minute round to determine the champion and the runnersup to the title.

The first place winner will have the opportunity to advance to the State Monopoly Tournaments as well as the National and the International Tournaments. Winners will receive trophies and various prizes, all donated by local merchants.

The first round of play will begin at 7 p.m. on Sept. 30, with finals on Oct. 1. Anyone in the community is eligible to play in the tournament.

Registration forms are available by calling 774-3731 and at local businesses.

Monopoly is the world's most popular proprietary game.

The Monopoly Tournament at Southwestern Oklahoma State University will be a unique way to spend a night playing this popular board game for a chance at prizes and fame.

The tournament will be held in the Student Union Ballroom, located on the second floor of the Union.

Theatre department to perform 'Steel Magnolias' here Oct. 3-5

Truvy's Beauty Shop moves to Weatherford.

The SWOSU stage is the new home of Truvy Jones' Beauty Shop, featuring the six lovely ladies of Chinquapin, Louisiana.

DeLenna Williams, the director of "Steel Magnolias," found the job of casting the six roles extremely difficult. Twenty-five young women auditioned for the six characters. The movie roles were portrayed by Sally Field, Julia Roberts, Dolly Parton, Daryl Hannah, Olympia Dukakis and Shirley MacLaine.

Cast members include: Truvy, owner of the Beauty Shop - Jessica Massey, senior theatre-education major from Oklahoma City; Truvy's shy assistant, Annelle - Stephanie Holland, senior English major from Apache; Shelby, the prettiest girl in town - Heather Adkins, sophomore marine biology major from Watonga; M'Lynn, Shelby's mother and career woman - Wendy Weber, junior theatre-education major from Okeene; Clairee, Chinquapin's Grande Dame - Kim Royster, junior theatre-education major from Vernon, Texas, and the acerbic and loveable Ouiser - Kimberly Charles, senior theatre major from Weatherford.

Joe Thompson, technical director and scene designer, has constructed a set that looks like an authentic beauty shop with only one wall removed for the audience to view the two beauticians' stations, the shampoo bowl and the dryers. Running water and lots of spray net complete the atmosphere of a real beauty shop.

Richard Harling's "Steel Magnolias" runs October 3-5 at 7:30 p.m. in the University Auditorium.

English Club

English Club meets every other week. The dues are $5 a year. It has ties to the national English honor fraternity, Sigma Tau Delta.

Offshoots of the English Club are the Collection meetings, held on the weeks that English Club does not meet. Anyone may attend the meetings to read their own writing or their favorite works by other authors. Some merely go to listen, since participation is not mandatory.

The first official English club activity was the tea Sept. 10 at 4:30 pm. On Halloween, the club plans to get together and read Edgar Allen Poe.

Creative Artists

The Society of Creative Artists, headed by president Dawn Hebert, is planning several events this fall.

The schedule holds a trip to Tulsa museums the second week of September, a window painting to display Homecoming spirit in November and a Christmas show.

A sculptor will also be visiting the campus this fall.

Psychology Club

Southwestern Oklahoma State University's Psychology Club is both a professional club as well as a social organization, says club sponsor Dr. J. Hunsicker.

With activities such as Career Day, guest speakers and social events, including picnics and get-togethers, the Psychology Club offers anyone interested in the field of psychology a chance to learn something about it in friendly surroundings.

Information about upcoming events is posted on the bulletin board outside the psychology offices, with something happening every month.

Political Science

The Political Science Association of Southwestern will be sending a delegation to the Midwest Model United Nations this fall. It also sponsors SWOSU's "Broadside" newspaper. Anyone interested in participating with either of these should contact Dr. Edward Rolison in the Education building.

Dr. Bill Kermis named associate dean

Among the new policies and faculty Southwestern received this summer is the new Dean of the Graduate School and Associate Vice-President for Academic Affairs, Dr. Bill Kermis.

Growing up in Rochester, New York, and attending colleges in several different states, Kermis has had the best of both worlds. He earned his Masters and Doctoral degrees from Syracuse University, and prior to that, he received his BA in Psychology from Fort Lewis College of Colorado. He has taught at many schools, including the University of Texas, Syracuse University, The State University of New York, and he comes to us from Northwest Missouri State University, where he served as chairperson of curriculum and instruction since 1989. He also has experience at high school and mid-high levels.

Maintaining a competitive standing the graduates and enforcing technology as an issue as it impacts students are Kermis's main goals during his stay here at SWOSU. He feels that students are not literate in technology like they need to be for the upcoming century. He would like to see not only students educated in technology and culture, but would also like to get the faculty involved in research and experiments in the classroom.

His responsibilities as Dean of Graduate School include overseeing the graduate council and interpreting the policies set by the board and faculty. Kermis has emphatically stated that he has an open door policy and welcomes all graduate students to come and speak with him if they would like. As Associate Vice-president for Academic Affairs he is responsible for institutional research and the General Education program.

When he is not focusing on the education aspect in terms of academics, he feels that cultural diversity is aptly important in college life. Kermis would like to increase the culture on campus by making the students aware of the cultural events which are occurring daily by supporting the foreign exchange program, inviting foreign speakers to the campus and encouraging more Panorama events and participation.

Dr. Kermis has taught math and physical science for several years before coming to the Southwestern campus. Kermis is unmarried, but has a cat named UT which he acquired when he taught at the University of Texas.

Kelley's

Reel Value

By R. Lance Garrett

For a resident of a small college town like Weatherford (i.e. boring), movie rental provides one of the forms of entertainment. This column serves one purpose: to help college students not blow good money on bad movies. Let's delve into the celluloid and see what we can discover.

Question: Why are fantasy movies so fun to watch?

Answer: They have no boundaries.

In most fantasy films, the limits of our imagination are pushed beyond recognition. In some we are merely tested. And in a very small portion of fantasy films we are asked to seek shelter from idiotic plot lines and desperately shallow characters. The film "Deathstalker II" easily fits into the last category. Even taken as a spoof of fantasy films, "Deathstalker II" can't pretend to be a good movie. The acting is sophomoric. The special effects are Disney in the early sixties! The funding for this movie must have come from some low-rate business men who wanted to make a porno but got talked out of it at the last minute.

This film could not even make it into Dante's Inferno. Do not waste your money or your time on this movie!

Now that I have made myself perfectly clear on that point, it is time to throw in a confusing statement. At the very end of "Deathstalker II" (during the credits), are some of the funniest out-takes I have ever seen. They make you realize that even bad movies can be fun to make.

Coming of age is focus of local reading program

Are children growing up too fast today? Or perhaps you like to think, like Peter Pan, that you'll never grow up? In a culture that seldom celebrates rites of passage with anything more than high-school graduation, coming of age can be a difficult concept as well as a difficult experience.

SWOSU's Language Arts Department and the Weatherford Public Library are presenting a series of reading and discussion programs on "Coming of Age in America" from Sept. 12 to Nov. 21 at Weatherford's United Community Bank. Programs will begin at 7 p.m. Funding for the series is provided in part by a grant from the Oklahoma Foundation for the Humanities and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

"Coming of age in America" is one of the many reading and discussion themes that are part of the "Let's Talk About It, Oklahoma" project of the Oklahoma Library Association. The theme was developed in Oklahoma by scholars Linda Thornton, professor of composition and literature at Oklahoma City Community College, and Jennifer Kidney, director of the statewide "Let's Talk About It, Oklahoma" project.

Readings for the series focus on the ways in which the sense of self, the sense of place, the desire for belonging, and the desire to break away interact when a young person faces disillusionment and adult responsibility for the first time. Included are "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter" (Sept. 12) by Carson McCullers; "The Silver DeSoto" (Oct. 3) by Oklahoma author Patty Lou Floyd; "The Catcher in the Rye" (Oct. 24) by J. D. Salinger; and Larry McMurtry's "The Last Picture Show" (Nov. 21).

The first program on "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter" will feature Dr. Terry Britton of Rose State College.

Miss SWOSU Regents discuss student assessment

for three years. Included in her titles are first runner up in the Miss National Teen Queen and Miss Marlow.

On September 27 and 28 she plans to compete in the Maid of Cotton pageant. If she wins the award, she will go to the Cotton Bowl.

Gail's talents vary from singing to playing the piano to yodeling. Last year she played the piano, but by request from the judges, Gail will change her talent to yodeling for next year's pageant.

"It's an art that's not done very often. I feel that it will catch people's eye," this beauty queen said. "I did it for the judges that day (of last year's pageant) and they really thought I needed to change (my talent)."

Wearing the title of Miss Southwestern is an important aspect of Gail's life.

"I feel like Southwestern is one of the major colleges in Oklahoma and being able to represent Southwestern is great. Following in the footsteps of Tamara Walker is a big thing, also," she said.

Parades and countless interviews are in the future for the new Miss Southwestern.

The things that Gail like most about the pageants are the scholarships and meeting new friends.

"They (the scholarships) really help if you're not financially able to go to school."

Gail would recommend the pageant to any interested girls. "In smaller pageants like this, it's not a pageant that girls are out to get other girls. Just to win, that is all they (the girls in other pageants) want. The people that were in this pageant system helped me to build my self confidence."

Because Gail was given the title of Miss Southwestern late in the year she will be allowed to compete next year.

improvements in a number of areas which contribute to a student's overall collegiate experience," he said.

Students would be evaluated at three levels: as they enter college, during the sophomore or junior year, and as seniors. A fourth assessment component calls for institutions to evaluate student satisfaction.

"Nationally, assessment is fast becoming a critical issue in higher education," said State Regents' Chairman Donald B. Halverstadt. "Oklahoma higher education is moving to the forefront of this area by devising a system that not only provides feedback to the institutions for instructional improvement but also serves as one measure of accountability to the citizens of Oklahoma."

Entry-level assessment would determine students' academic readiness and assist faculty members and counselors in placing students in appropriate courses. Students would be evaluated in basic skills such as reading, writing, math and science.

Institutions would report the number of students required to improve basic skills and the methods used to improve those skills.

Mid-level assessment, scheduled to occur between the middle of the sophomore and end of the junior year, would examine students' progress in reading, writing, math and critical thinking. Measures used in this stage of assessment could include academic standing, grade point average, standardized or institutionally developed tests.

The third assessment phase would measure how well students are meeting the goals and objectives in their major field of study. Institutions could use nationally standardized instruments such as the Graduate Record Exam (GRE), National Teacher Exam (NTE), various licensing examinations or their own techniques of measurement.

The final component of the proposed assessment policy is an evaluation of student satisfaction.

12 reasons why you'll love Macintosh

1. It's easy to use.

Bring home an Apple® Macintosh® computer today, and use it to complete assignments by tonight—even if you've never used a computer before.

2. You don't have to speak computerese.

Instead of cryptic MS-DOS commands such as COPY C:\WORDPROC\DRIFT.DOC A:\WORK, Macintosh uses familiar words, such as Copy and Print, and pictures, such as file folders for storing your documents and a trash can for files you want to throw away.

3. You don't have to be a computer science major to set one up.

Just plug everything together, flip the "on" switch, and you're ready to roll.

4. It's a breeze to copy information and paste it into another document.

To copy this chart, simply use the mouse to choose the Copy command.

To place the chart in another document, just choose the Paste command.

5. All Macintosh programs work in the same way.

Learn to use one Macintosh program, and you've learned the basics of using them all. For example, the commands you use, such as Open, Close, Copy, Paste, Save, Cut, Print, and Undo, are found in the same place—every time.

6. It can grow with you.

This week you're majoring in philosophy, next week it's nuclear physics. After all, no one knows exactly what the future will bring. That's why millions of students have found that investing in a Macintosh is a smart move. Because Macintosh can immediately help you do whatever you do—better. And if, come tomorrow, you find that you want to do something different, no problem. It's easy to upgrade your Macintosh to help you rise to the challenge.

7. It's great for college and beyond.

Doing your work faster, better, and more creatively is also a plus in the working world—and that's precisely why Macintosh computers are used in 74 percent of Fortune 1000 companies.*

74%

8. It's got connections.

To connect a printer, a modem, an external hard disk, or just about any other peripheral to a Macintosh, simply plug it in. That's all there is to it.

9. It lets you work with others.

Every Macintosh is equipped with an Apple SuperDrive™, a unique floppy disk drive that can use not only Macintosh disks, but also MS-DOS and OS/2 disks created on IBM and IBM-compatible computers. With SoftPC from Insignia Solutions, you can even run MS-DOS applications on your Macintosh.

10. It's so easy to network.

Just connect the LocalTalk® cable from one Macintosh to another Macintosh. It takes just a few minutes, and you don't have to buy any additional hardware or software.

11. You can connect to your school's mainframe or minicomputer.

With Macintosh, you can send in assignments, gain access to software you need for a class, and receive lecture notes, class schedules, and other information—right from your own room.

12. It's more affordable than ever.

Macintosh prices have never been lower—especially with the student pricing available from your authorized Apple campus reseller. You may even qualify for financing, which makes Macintosh even more affordable.

These reasons all add up to the power of Macintosh. The power to be your best.*

Coming to Oklahoma: French students adjust

By Magali Lefebvre
and Valerie Montaigne

On Thursday, August 15, as we arrived at the Oklahoma City Airport, we had no idea of what awaited us. Little by little, we discovered the landscape, which is rather flat and without many trees; what surprised us the most was the color of the earth, because in France we are used to brown.

Once we arrived at Weatherford, we were amazed at the size of the houses and of the streets which, moreover, have no sidewalks. The town is quite different from ours, for there is no bakery and no butcher's shop.

Now that we have been here for almost two weeks, we are getting accustomed to the surroundings. However, we still have troubles with the hot weather.

The campus is the place where we have learned the most about people, their customs and what they like or do not like. We were not prepared for the kind of hospitality and friendliness with which they welcomed us. Besides, they are always ready to help us in one way or another. Many revealed a great interest in France, especially in French language: they asked us to teach them some basic words.

Strangely enough, to come in the United States has always been our dream - the American dream is still very much present in France - and yet we discovered that some people are eager to travel to France to see Paris.

We met the student who went to Paris last year and the one who is going this year. Each of us talked about his own country, his own customs and this led to interesting comparisons. What was also uncommon was when we spoke with the Russian students. Thus, there was an exchange of cultures, languages and traditions.

Some of the events which really impressed us were the show about Indians "The Trail of Tears", that we saw in Tahlequah, and the Las Vegas night at SWOSU where we had a pleasant evening especially at the moment of auction when the feast was going full swing.

If we had to describe our first impressions in a few words, we would say that we enjoy being in Oklahoma but we are still under culture shock.

Russian students bring new dimension to campus

Southwestern has recently led Oklahoma's universities into a new dimension.

This state's first two Russian exchange students have arrived on campus, and two more are expected in September from Grenoble.

Olga Tolstushko, visiting from Minsk, is studying business. She previously specialized in English at Minsk State Pedagogical Institute of Foreign Languages. Tolstushko believes the knowledge she obtains concerning the free market system will be of extreme value upon her return to Russia.

Tanya Baklanova arrived from Rostov-on-Don to study music.

Her talents include singing and playing the piano.

Baklanova previously attended The Music Pedagogical Institute. She believes studying the culture of the American people will help her to better understand our music.

After a year of correspondence by telephone, FAX, mail (delivery rate being 69-90 days) and a personal visit to Minsk by Dr. Dan Dill and Dr. Francis Feeley, students Casey Sutterfield of Woodward, Kelly Shepherd of Blackwell, Terry Larson of Yukon and Earl Dalke of Weatherford were sent to Minsk from Southwestern.

The students will stay the school year before returning. Next year, four students will arrive at SWOSU from Minsk, with an undecided number from the institutes in Rostov and Grenoble.

History hosts film series

The Southwestern Oklahoma State University history club is sponsoring its fourth annual film series during the fall semester on the Weatherford campus.

The films are shown on Thursday evenings at 6:30 p.m. in the library auditorium, which is located on the west side of the Southwestern library.

The films are free, according to Dr. Francis Feeley of the SWOSU social sciences department.

The films include:

Sept. 12 - "Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown."

Sept. 19 - "Doctor Zhivago."

Sept. 26 - "Soylent Green."

Oct. 3 - "Judgment at Nuremberg."

Oct. 10 - "A Clockwork Orange."

Oct. 24 - "Gorky Park."

Oct. 31 - "Cinema Paradiso."

Nov. 7 - "Elmer Gantry."

Nov. 14 - "Citizen Kane."

Nov. 21 - "Brazil."

Dec. 5 - "Oklahoma."

Dec. 12 - "Hud."

Bulldogs Prepare With Intrasquad

Southwestern Oklahoma State University's football team continued preparations for its season opener on Sept. 7 as the Bulldogs will held an intrasquad scrimmage this Saturday, Aug. 31, on the Weatherford campus.

SWOSU head coach Paul Sharp said the scrimmage went well, and his staff learned a good deal about the team.

Sharp currently has 66 players on the roster including a late addition, Brad Norman, who joined the Bulldog squad on Monday of this week. Norman transferred to SWOSU from Oklahoma State University where he redshirted last season. The tailback from Oklahoma City Putnam City West will be eligible immediately.

Sharp said the Bulldogs still have plenty of work to do before starting the season Sept. 7 at Arkansas Tech University. So far, the injury bug has not affected the Bulldogs.

The 6th-year SWOSU coach did note that several players have looked good in the fall practices. Most notable standouts include fullback Donnie Kerr, tailback Lenard Leviston, wide receiver Nathan Robinson and defensive ends Anthony Cathey and Russell Whittaker.

Nelson Perkins Schedules Heavier Intramural Slate

Southwestern Oklahoma State University's intramural recreation calendar has been finalized for the 1991 fall semester, according to SWOSU intramural director Nelson Perkins.

Already underway for Southwestern students on the Weatherford campus are flag football for men and women, aerobics and coed softball. Tennis and swimming events are also scheduled to begin during the month of September.

Perkins also said that Rankin Williams Fieldhouse will be open four nights each week. On Monday through Thursday from 6 to 11 p.m., the weight room, swimming pool and gymnasium will be open for the benefit of all Southwestern students. Also beginning September 18, the rappelling tower at Crowder Lake south of Weatherford will be open one day per week with instruction and all equipment furnished.

The 1991 fall intramural calendar is:

Tennis, singles, doubles and mixed doubles: entries open Sept. 9, entries close Sept. 16, play begins Sept. 16.

Swimming, men, women, coed: entries open Sept. 16, entries close Sept. 25, play begins Sept. 26.

Weightlifting, men and women: entries open Sept. 30, entries close Oct. 9, play begins Oct. 10.

Fun Run, men and women: entries open Oct. 1, entries close Oct. 17, play begins Oct. 18.

Volleyball, women: entries open Oct. 28, entries close Nov. 1, play begins Nov. 4.

3-on-3 Volleyball, men: entries open Oct. 28, entries close Nov. 1, play begins Nov. 4.

3-on-3 Basketball, men and women: entries open Nov. 4, entries close Nov. 9, play begins Nov. 11.

Tug-of-war: entries open Nov. 4, entries close Nov. 12, play begins Nov. 13.

Lady Bulldogs Announce Scrims

Southwestern Oklahoma State University women's basketball coach John Loftin has announced a lineup of seven scrimmages before their season opener on Nov. 11 against Oklahoma City University.

The Lady Bulldogs will scrimmage Clarendon, TX on Oct. 4 at 1:00 p.m. in Weatherford, Western Oklahoma State on Oct. 8 at 1:00 p.m. in Weatherford, Carl Albert OK JUCO on Oct. 14 at 6:00 p.m. in Okemah, St. Gregory's OK JUCO on Oct. 18 at 2:00 p.m. in Weatherford, Connors OK and Odessa TX at 6:00 p.m. on Oct. 25 and at 9:00 a.m. on Oct. 26 in Weatherford, and Seminole OK JUCO on Oct. 31 at 3:00 p.m. in Weatherford.

Southwestern finished second in the nation last season with a 31-3 record and is expected to be one of the premier teams this season in the NAIA.

'Dogs suffer heart-breaker in opener

The Arkansas Tech Wonder Boys put together a fourth-quarter scoring drive of 66 yards to edge past the Southwestern Bulldogs, 23-20, in the season-opener for both teams.

Lenard Levinston scored three touchdowns to keep Southwestern in the contest throughout, the first coming on a 51-yard pass from quarterback Chad Hetrick to tie the contest at 7-7 with 2:19 to play in the first quarter.

Levinston struck again in the second quarter, carrying over from three yards out. The extra point was blocked, but SW led, 13-7. The second score was set up by two key receptions by Nathan Robinson, the last of which put the Bulldogs at the five-yard line.

Hetrick turned in a solid passing performance, going 14 for 33 for 228 yards with no interceptions.

The hosting Wonder Boys of Russellville, Arkansas got back into the lead with a safety late in the second quarter, and then picked up a blocked punt and returned it 25 yards for a 16-13 edge.

Levinston then capped another SW scoring drive, going over left tackle for 14 yards and his third TD of the night. SW tacked on the PAT, and led 20-16 with 3:31 left in the third period.

After Arkansas Tech's fourth-quarter score, the Bulldogs had an opportunity to take the game when they advanced into Wonder Boy territory behind the throwing of Hetrick.

A fourth-down pass was broken up, however, and after the Bulldog defense held, Southwestern fumbled the ensuing punt on the next-to-last play of the game.

Only two of Arkansas Tech's scores came against SW's defense, the opening touchdown and the late winning drive.

Brent Thornton led a solid Bulldog defensive effort with 20 tackles, including 13 unassisted stops.

Despite Levinston's two rushing touchdowns, SW managed only 44 yards rushing.

Rose named as HPER chair

Dr. Ken G. Rose of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department was recently promoted to department chair.

He was officially promoted after the Board of Regents reviewed his excellent qualifications in early August.

Dr. Rose has been at Southwestern Oklahoma State University since 1974, employed as a professor of HPER. He is also the aquatics director for SWOSU. Dr. Rose received his B.S. Ed. in Natural Science and HPER from SWOSU in 1967 and M.Ed. in HPER and Administration in 1970 from SWOSU. He then received his Ed.D., in Educational Administration, Adult Education and HPER from the University of Oklahoma in 1980.

He was employed by Washita Heights High School and Junior High from 1968 to 1974. During the course of his education and experience he has earned numerous certifications in aquatics and first aid. He is a member of more than 16 different organizations and is currently doing research on the effect of increased barometric pressure upon the response to drugs, a joint effort with Dr. David Coates of the School of Pharmacy.

The things Dr. Rose would like to see continue to expand and grow in HPER are areas in which both students and faculty can benefit. Some of those areas include making the facilities more "user friendly" and expanding intramurals. In response to filling Dr. Charles Hundley's position as the Dept. Chair, Dr. Rose characterized Dr. Hundley as a "fantastic man whose shoes will be hard to fill."

SWOSU golfers host benefit scramble

Area golfers are invited to participate in the annual Southwestern Oklahoma State University golf team benefit scramble on Sunday, September 15, at 2 p.m. at the Weatherford Golf Course.

The tourney will be a 4-man scramble and will be limited to 36 teams. Entry fee is $25 per man.

SWOSU golf coach Cecil Perkins said there will be two flights, and flights will be determined by the number of teams. There will be a gross score flight and a net score flight.

Prizes will be awarded for 1st and 2nd places in each flight. First-place winners in each flight will receive a set of irons (2 through 9) which are courtesy of Address Golf Inc., of Edmond.

Also, $40 cash prizes will be given for being the closest to the hole on hole numbers 3, 5, 8, 11, 13 and 16. Refreshments will also be served to all golfers.

The tournament is open to anyone, and individuals can call Perkins at 774-3182 for entry forms. Also, additional information including cart rental can be obtained by calling the Weatherford Golf Course at 772-3832.

'Dogs take to road against Ouachita

The SWOSU Bulldogs will experience the second road game of the year Saturday, Sept. 14th, when they travel to Arkadelphia, AR to play the Ouachita Baptist University.

The Bulldogs won last year's contest in unusual fashion.

The OBU Tigers were forced to forfeit their victory due to an ineligible player.

The SWOSU Bulldogs have 8 returning starters on both offense and defense.

OBU has 7 returning on defense and have 8 returning on offense.

OBU returns signal caller Andy Jayroe and running backs Jeff Savage, TB, and David Damron, FB.

Returning from the offensive line are Jay Hanlon, OG, Greg Weuten, LG, and Rusty New at RT.

On the defensive front, OBU has Isaiah Sheppard, LDT, Jimmy Witherspoon, LB, Toby Talley, DT, and Brent Jackson, LB.

OBU has only 2 secondary starters returning, Randy Biggs, RCB, and Ashley Lewis, LCB.

OBU runs the basic slot I on offense and the 5-4 on defense.

OBU has two key losses from the defensive squad those being Scotty McCullister, NG, and Mark Haywood, DE.

OBU finished last year with a conference record of 4-2, which was good enough for second place.
